What is the Web Session about?

The Topic

Krisenmanagement, Notfallvorsorge und Evakuierung

Unfortunately, even the most serious forecasts predict an increase in various crises: extreme weather events, cyber attacks and other small and large disasters that can lead to emergency situations. At the operational level, it is therefore essential not only to keep “the store running”, but also to protect employees in the best possible way.

This ranges from holistic crisis and emergency management to ensuring escape routes in the event of fire and the corresponding routing, effective methods and tools for firefighting, safe storage of sensitive substances and other components that you can support with your solutions and products and present in our web session.
